How often do you need to Change your oil? 3,000 miles may be too early to change your Oil. This old standard no longer applies to most vehicles, even older models, can be driven up to 5,000, 7,500, 10,000, and even 15,000 miles before needing an oil change. Changing your oil less often may save you time and money in service costs and will do our natural environment a big favor without hurting your vehicle or compromising auto performance in the least. Check your vehicle owner's manual or visit <https://calrecycle.ca.gov/UsedOil/> to find out how often you need to change your motor oil.
